All cells share four common components: 1) a plasma membrane, an outer covering that separates the cell's interior from its surrounding environment; 2) cytoplasm, consisting of a jelly-like cytosol within the cell in which other cellular components are found; 3) DNA, the genetic material of the cell; and 4) ribosomes, which synthesize proteins.

72 CHAPTER 4 INTRODUCTION TO CELLS Cells come in a variety of shapes and sizes that suit their diverse functions. There are at least 200 types of cells, ranging from flat cells to branching cells to round cells to rectangular cells. CELL DIVERSITY Cells of different organisms and even cells within the same organism

4 CELL STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION - ABC Science

4.0: Prelude to Cell Structure Your body has many kinds of cells, each specialized for a specific purpose. Just as a home is made from a variety of building materials, the human body is constructed from many cell types. For example, epithelial cells protect the surface of the body and cover the organs and body cavities within.

outer membrane that separates the cell's contents from its environment; permeable; made mostly of phospholipids; proteins are attached to the surface. Cytoplasm fluid or jellylike mixture of water, sugars, ions, and proteins enclosed by the plasma membrane; metabolism happens here; cell's organelles are suspended in it.

Chapter 4: Cell Structure and Function

Membrane Structure and Function • A cell membrane functions as a selectively permeable barrier that separates an internal environment from an external one • Membranes of most cells can be described as a fluid mosaic of lipids (mainly phospholipids) and proteins • Lipids are organized as a lipid bilayer: a double layer of lipids in which the nonpolar tails of both layers are sandwiched between the polar heads

Chapter 4 Cell Structure and Function Table of Contents

The cell wall and the cell membrane are the main components that function to provide support and structure to the organism. For eg., the skin is made up of a large number of cells. Xylem present in the vascular plants is made of cells that provide structural support to the plants.
