At the lowest level of the Highland Maya Cargo System are young men who are entering into the cargo system for the first time. This term lasts one year. At this level the young men are required to do menial tasks for older males in the system, running errands, and tending to higher members' beck and call.

~~The Highland Maya Cargo System - Step by Step~~

Nevertheless, timekeeping was undeniably an important, even central, activity of the ancient Maya, and much of their history is unintelligible without reference to it. The value of Professor Tedlock's work, and of this book in particular, is found in the material that she can present to Mayan archeologists and epigraphers to help them understand their source material.
